The Internal Protection Alternative In Light of 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees

*Ayman A. Halaseh

ABSTRACT

This research discussed Internal Protection Alternative in light of the 1951 convention relating to the Status of Refugees. An introduction was set to explain the importance and questions raised by the study. Then it was divided to three chapters:

The first chapter examined the practices of states concerning the Interpretation and application of this new concept in International Refugee law. The second chapter focused on how several scholars have examined Internal Protection Alternative. The third chapter elaborated on the position of UNHCR. Finally, the results of the research and recommendations adopted were illustrated.

Keywords: Refugee law, Refugees, Internally Displaced People, Human Rights, International Public Law.
